PAY RANGE: $109,808 to $152,000*

*SES pay is determined within the pay range, commensurate with experience, superior leadership qualifications, and/or other competencies consistent with the agency mission, contingent on Department pay-setting rules.

PROMOTION POTENTIAL (IF ANY): None

VACANCY ANNOUNCEMENT NUMBER: 06-CRM-SES-01

AREA OF CONSIDERATION: All Sources

OPENING DATE: 3/20/2006

CLOSING DATE: 4/10/2006

DUTY LOCATION: Computer Crime and Intellectual Property Section, Criminal Division, Washington, D.C.

NUMBER OF VACANCIES: 1 Position

JOB SUMMARY:

The successful candidate will serve as the Principal Deputy Chief, Computer Crime and Intellectual Property Section and support the Chief in leading national and international law enforcement efforts against cybercrime and intellectual property crime, and in protecting the critical information infrastructure from cyberterrorism and other attacks. The Principal Deputy Chief reports directly to the Chief of the Section within the Criminal Division.

MAJOR DUTIES:

The Principal Deputy Chief of the Computer Crime and Intellectual Property Section:

- Supervises subordinate managers who oversee and coordinate the activities of attorneys and technologists in the Section as they review, analyze and evaluate investigative reports to ascertain whether evidentiary deficiencies or legal problems exist in critical computer crime and intellectual property cases.
- Works with subordinate managers to develop, implement, and coordinate sensitive Department initiatives in the area of computer and intellectual property crime.
- Works closely with United States Attorneys' Offices to ensure the proper coordination of multi-district and multi-national computer crime and intellectual property cases.
- Oversees the design and implementation of enforcement strategies and monitors the supervision of litigation by subordinate managers. Develops and reviews CCIPS strategies to increase cooperation with foreign entities and governments and to harmonize computer crime and intellectual property laws and eliminate procedural impediments in international investigations.
- Oversees development and execution of the Section's technology crime program, integrating the CCIPS Cybercrime Lab with the technology law work of the section. Builds CCIPS's technology crime program with partners outside the office, including the U.S. Attorneys' Offices, investigative agencies, and the high-tech sector. This program develops and adopts policy to increase considerations for public safety as new technical standards are developed; contributes to the development of sound legislation; assists in the technical aspects of prosecuting computer and intellectual property crimes; and furthers U.S. Government efforts to promote information-sharing with technologists, both public and private sector.

- Serves as a primary liaison between the Criminal Division and the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Departments of Commerce, Treasury, State, Defense, Homeland Security, and a variety of domestic and international officials on computer and intellectual property crime issues. Briefs Congressional and White House staff and speaks to the press.
- Oversees drafting and comments to proposed legislation and analysis of its likely impact on investigative operations and techniques. Advises the Chief, DAAG and AAG concerning legal and policy questions regarding applicable statutes administered by the Section and the status of important cases. Supervises the preparation of Departmental officials for testimony before Congressional Committees and subcommittees.
- Oversees the Section's financial, human and technical resource applications. Ensures that resource enhancements necessary for proposed priorities are identified and that justification for additional funding is prepared to ensure adequate funding levels. Utilizes efficient and cost-effective approaches to integrate technology into the workplace for improved program effectiveness, information management, and enhanced decision-making. Expands website applications (both internet and intranet) to serve as a central repository for cyber information with useful links on case law, international work, legislation, and policy issues.
- Oversees national training and coordination of the CHIP (Computer Hacking and Intellectual Property) Program, a national network of assistant U.S. attorneys from all U.S. Attorneys' Offices, who specialize in prosecuting computer and IP crime.

MANDATORY QUALIFICATIONS:

Applicants for this position must provide a narrative that demonstrates strong possession of all professional/technical skills listed below AND a narrative describing successful performance and creative leadership in prior managerial positions for each of the five Executive Core Qualifications (ECQ's) as established by the U.S. Office of Personnel Management (OPM) outlined below under Executive/Managerial Requirements. The ECQ's are designed to assess executive experience and management potential, not technical expertise.
